A Note

This is the letter that blew into your bedroom through an open window, scrawled in crude, childlike handwriting by someone who quite clearly only recently learned how to write. It reads:

Dear Katherine Strauss,

My Name is Zephyr. I am an Air Elemental, and a Naturalist who Studees Humans. I have Hearrd about your Work Studeeing Elementnals, and that You will be Presentt at the Elemental Conference. I would be Innterested in Learning More about your Reesearch, and hope to Be able to Speek with you and Share our Knowledge.

Sincerely,

A Soggy Note Painted on Fabric

Earth Elementals:

I am writing this message in some desperation. One of my youngest elementals was recently attacked in a most brutal fashion. He has since died from the injuries he sustained during the attack. We have no idea who perpetrated the crime. When word reached us of Olympus's illness, I began to suspect that even fouler things were afoot. I believe that someone deliberately violated one of my subjects in order to obtain Water Elemental Essence (313). A sufficiently powerful elemental could use the essence to make a deadly, slow acting poison. I suspect that this is what ails your king. Please accept this note as a sign of water's good will and help us get to the bottom of this mystery.

Sincerely,

Maelstrom, Queen of All Water

A Stone Tablet*This is a heavy stone tablet, with writing inscribed into it. It reads:*

To Dr. Sofia Alexandrov:

While you may not recall meeting me, I certainly remember encountering you and a friend of yours a few years ago. Your friend was fantastically persuasive. I think that kind of talent could be very useful.

Now, while my initial involvement in your experiment was involuntary, and my big brother kind of interrupted you, I'm really interested in related technology that you're developing. I'd love to help. I might even keep quiet if you teach me about how to use it. Thanks!
