Open two hours into game

This conference is exciting, and you're having a blast. However, it's still pretty tiring. The effort of keeping going and dealing with all these people is somewhat stressful.

Open if you talk to badge number MADSCIENTIST for at least three minutes

You feel both fear and a strange sense of obedience to this person, but you still can't remember where you have met before.

Elementals/May something, 2013

Open when you see an earth elemental

staple binding along here

You haven't been working with earth elementals very much lately, but now that you've seen one, you get the bad feeling like you have had more interactions with them than you can remember.

Elementals/May something, 2013

Open if you interact with badge number MINION

staple binding along here

You feel a strange compulsion to take control of this elemental. You issue a command to him, appropriate to the current situation. If there are no immediately relevant commands, ask him to make you a sandwich. The compulsion passes after you have made this command. Obviously, this involuntary break in your self-control is distressing. Roleplay accordingly.

Elementals/May something, 2013

Open if you interact with badge number MADSCIENTIST for a total of at least ten minutes

staple binding along here

Your continued interaction with Sofia has triggered some kind of flashback.

During the flashback, you are not aware of what is going on around you. Stand still, eyes glazed, and unresponsive to outside stimuli, for two minutes. (You are effectively Knocked Out, even though you have not collapsed.)

Elementals/May something, 2013

Open if you hear anyone suggest forceful or dangerously fast retaping

staple binding along here

Hell no! You are distressed by the mere suggestion of such a thing. You should object loudly and immediately.

Elementals/May something, 2013

Open if you have had a flashback and also have experienced at least two stressful events

staple binding along here

That was the last straw. The excess stress at this event has gotten to you. You are extremely anxious and jittery for the remainder of the conference. Your fear of Sofia will cause you to flee from any room she enters. Further, you think that elementals will obey your every command. Roleplay accordingly.

Elementals/May something, 2013

Open if someone succeeds in retaping you

staple binding along here

Well, they've succeeded in retaping you, but there are some unintended side effects. You will follow orders, and be generally obedient to your new supervisor, but you are also now permanently insane and psychotic. Feel free to take orders too literally (like a tricky genie might). Further, you should also take every opportunity to screw up everything for everybody. If you can find a way to cause a war or destroy the world, go for it. Any ongoing or future consequences of stressful events have no further effect on your mental status.
