This conference is exciting, and you're having a blast. However, it's still pretty tiring. The effort of keeping going and dealing with all these people is somewhat stressful.

You recognize this woman, but you're not sure why.

Open if you talk to badge number 000 for at least three minutes

You feel both fear and a strange sense of obedience to this person, but you still can't remember where you have met before.

Conflux/May 18th, 2013

Open when you see an earth elemental

staple binding along here

You haven't been working with earth elementals very much lately, but now that you've seen one, you get the bad feeling like you have had more interactions with them than you can remember.

Conflux/May 18th, 2013

Open if you interact with badge number 000

staple binding along here

You feel a strange compulsion to take control of this elemental. You issue a command to him, appropriate to the current situation. If there are no immediately relevant commands, ask him to make you a sandwich. The compulsion passes after you have made this command. Obviously, this involuntary break in your self-control is distressing. Roleplay accordingly.

Open if you interact with badge number 000 for a total of at least ten minutes

staple binding along here

Your continued interaction with Sofia has triggered some kind of flashback.

During the flashback, you are not aware of what is going on around you. Stand still, eyes glazed, and unresponsive to outside stimuli, for two minutes. (You are effectively Knocked Out, even though you have not collapsed.)

Conflux/May 18th, 2013

Open if you hear anyone suggest forceful or dangerously fast retaping

staple binding along here

Hell no! You are distressed by the mere suggestion of such a thing. You should object loudly and immediately.

Conflux/May 18th, 2013

Open if you have had a flashback and also have experienced at least two stressful events

staple binding along here

That was the last straw. The excess stress at this event has gotten to you. You are extremely anxious and jittery for the remainder of the conference. Your fear of Sofia will cause you to flee from any room she enters. Further, you think that elementals will obey your every command. Roleplay accordingly.

Open if someone succeeds in retaping you

staple binding along here

Well, they've succeeded in retaping you, but there are some unintended side effects. You will follow orders, and be generally obedient to your new supervisor, but you are also now permanently insane and psychotic. Feel free to take orders too literally (like a tricky genie might). Further, you should also take every opportunity to screw up everything for everybody. If you can find a way to cause a war or destroy the world, go for it. Any ongoing or future consequences of stressful events have no further effect on your mental status.

Z Packet:

Your have a massive migraine from the vast amount of audio-visual stimuli that was just blasted at you. This procedure is painful and interacts in a very confusing fashion with your prior Azi training leaving you in a persistent daze. Your previous connections to your supervisor has been severed, and your new supervisor is now Sofia Alexandrov. The re-training forces you to obey Sofia's commands unless they are suicidal or the action is extremely contrary to your character's persona. You can still act independently (including telling others what happened to you) unless Sofia orders you not to. Your new training has taught you how to enslave elementals by focusing your thoughts into a complicated pattern. See a GM to get the Enslavement (Azi) ability.

Conflux / May 18th, 2013

Open if you receive item number 543 from a human.:

Can humans manufacture this substance, which the Quintessence make? If so, it is critical that you protect this source and keep it out of the hands of the other elementals. A steady supply of this substance is worth signing a treaty over.

Conflux / May 18th, 2013

Open if you see item number 543:

This Elementium (543) looks just like the substance the Quintessence produce, back on the elemental plane.

Conflux / May 18th, 2013

C Packet:

From your conversation, you've made some deductions about what Katherine is working on. The device she is working with is an electromagnet that is capable of attracting elementals. It is a very potent device and, with a strong enough power source, it might even be able to pull them in over vast distances. You suspect it is designed to be hooked up to the Conduit.

Conflux / May 18th, 2013

E Packet:

You feel yourself drawn towards the strange torus. Initially the effect is quite subtle, but all of a sudden you are shot forward with alarming intensity. You then find yourself inside the strange device, staring back at yourself. When Katherine disables the device, you rapidly retreat to your physical body, but the experience is still extremely disorienting. Your CR is reduced by 1 for the next three minutes. Roleplay accordingly.

Conflux / May 18th, 2013

W Packet:

This substance tastes like ambrosia. It somehow reminds you of a distant home, and you feel empowered by this connection. For the next 10 minutes, your CR is increased by 1. You also feel a positive connection towards the person who gave this to you.
